In this episode of Wine Oh TV, Monique Soltani heads to the Napa Valley where the wine community has come together rebounding after wildfires rocked the region. Find out what impact the fires will have on the 2017 vintage, hear first hand from winemakers who fought to save their vines, and discover how giving the gift of good wine could help give back to our neighbors in need.

Monique Soltani stops by the Stags Leap District, a neighborhood in the Napa Valley known for crafting world class cabernet. She talks with Chimney Rock Winery winemaker, Elizabeth Vianna and Ted Henry, winemaker at Clos Du Val Winery. They help put out any wildfire misconceptions, give us a taste of the 2014 Stags Leap District Appellation Collection, and share their thoughts on what makes Cabernet from the Stags Leap District so special.

How did the Stags Leap District fare in the wine country fires?

The Stags Leap District was impacted by the Atlas Peak Fire as flames came fast and furious over the ridge and down the Palisades along the eastern side of the district. Fortunately damage to the wineries and vineyards of the district was minimal.

2014 Appellation Collection

The 2014 Appellation Collection showcases the best of Stags Leap District Cabernet with wines of power and grace. The Stags Leap District Winegrowers Association highly-limited Appellation Collection is available from now until December 15 or as allocations are available. The collection features 17 Stags Leap District Cabernet Sauvignons from the 2014 vintage.

Purchase at www.stagsleapdistrict.com/appellationcollection or Contact Executive Director, Nancy Bialek, at (707) 255-1720.

The Stags Leap District Winegrowers Association will donate $100 from each collection purchased to the Napa Valley Community Foundation's Disaster Relief Fund for fire victims. More information on the Napa Valley Community Foundation's Disaster Relief Fund can be found here: napavalleycf.org
